WORKSHOP DETAILS

Monday October 23rd, 2017
08:00 – 09:00	Registration – Refreshments Served
09:00 – 16:00 (with breaks)	Stream 1 Bram Van de Meer - Interviewing in a Threat Assessment Context (DAY 1) In threat assessment practice people often possess critical information that is not recorded in any other source of information. This makes the interview one of the most important methods of information gathering. But, the interview is also one of the areas where most mistakes are made, because people and their behaviour are contextual and dynamic in nature. Behaviour is often misinterpreted or miscommunicated and the interviewer not always successful in remaining the objective ‘fact finder’. This 2-day workshop will help identify such pitfalls and difficulties that practitioners run into during their data collection. Participants will learn specific skills and techniques that will enable them to conduct more effective interviews and generate useful information from those they assess.	Stream 2 Steve Weston - Fundamentals of Threat Assessment and Management A Practical Approach (Day 1) This two day workshop is to provide participants new to the field the foundational concepts, analytical approaches and best operational practices of Threat Assessment and Management. The workshop will stress the practical application of the ideas and techniques presented allowing the participants to more effectively function as a sole practitioner or as a member of a threat management team. Topics discussed during this workshop include understanding targeted violence, the path to intended violence, identifying the hunters and howlers, identifying problem individuals, assessing problem individuals, the “Need to Knows”, managing problem individuals, legal and mental health issues and establishing a threat management process. The final workshop segment will be practical exercises utilizing real world threat management cases.
